

University of Luxembourg

Assistant Professor in Geographical Information Systems and Spatial Planning (M/F)

Application End : Monday 26 February 2007

(Ref. No.: FLSHASE/GEO/AP)

The University of Luxembourg, founded in 2003, is an emerging institution committed to excellence in research and teaching.

The holder is expected to participate in strengthening the research profile of the Geography and Spatial Planning section within the Research Unit IPSE (Identités Politiques, Sociétés, Espaces), e.g. by conducting research on high international level, attracting and supervising PhD and master students, etc. He/she should be open to interdisciplinary, transnational research activities dealing with regional and European spatial planning and sustainability issues.

The holder is expected to teach courses related to GIS applications, Quantitative Data Analysis and Thematic Mapping as well as basic courses in Human Geography and Spatial Planning. Participation in administrative duties at the Research Units level is also expected.

Requirements

PhD in Human Geography or Spatial Planning with a clear GIS thrust

an outstanding research record

a proven ability to conduct research projects

a proven ability in teaching at masters level

at least two years of postdoctoral experience

professional experience in applied spatial planning is considered as an advantage

The University of Luxembourg is set in a multilingual context. Successful applicants are required to be fluent in two of the following languages: English, French, German. If need be, a working knowledge of French has to be acquired during the first two years.

Assistant Professorships at the University of Luxembourg usually are full tenure positions, permitting the holder to conduct individual research projects and to supervise PhD students.

For further inquiries please contact:

Prof. Dr. Christian Schulz (phone +352-466644-6327, e-mail: christian.schulz@uni.lu)

Interested candidates are asked to send before February 26th, 2007 a hard copy of their full application (cover letter, curriculum vitae, list of publications and research projects) with clear referral to the concerned position by ordinary mail to the Dean of the Faculty of Language and Literature, Humanities, Arts and Education:

Prof. Lucien Kerger

Université du Luxembourg - Campus Walferdange

BP. 2

L - 7201 Walferdange

The University of Luxembourg is an equal opportunity employer.