Undergraduate Research Experience (highlights)

Undergraduates employed on the following grants:

June Burnett Endowment (2014-2015)

Phevee Padres worked from June-August 2015 transcribing interviews that I conducted in Slovenia as part of my Fulbright project. The interviews were in English with a variety of reporters who had covered the crisis of the erased children.

Filip Curkovoic, a Croatian student, helped translate and transcribe several interviews that I conducted with Slovenian erased children. He worked during the 2014-2015 academic year

California Geographic Alliance (2012-present).

Undergraduates are often involved with this ongoing grant (with Tom Herman).

National Science Foundation

National Science Foundation, Population and Community Ecology Cluster (08/12-07/16). "A Study of Human-Nature Complexities in Fanjingshan Preserve, China." National Science Foundation DEB - 1212183 (with Li An, Xiaodong Chen, MinJaun Wang, Richard Bilsborrow Rebecca Lewison and Doug Stow, ~ $1,300,000).

Two undergraduates joined the team in China in summer 2014 to create a video documentary on the project.

National Science Foundation, SES-9113062. "Evaluating Change in Behavioral Potential: A Study of Households with Young Children in San Diego, California" Research Experience for Undergraduates Grant (REU 5-22527) ($5,000)

TKF Foundation

TKF Foundation National Open Spaces Sacred Places Award Planning Grant (11/11-06/12) Project Title: The Space Within (with Pascale Joassart-Marcelli and Fernando Bosco, $62, 084).

Undergraduates in my qualitative methods class (Spring 2014) joined the research team doing participant observation and interviews at the Jackie Robertson YMCA. They were an important part of the larger grant proposal we submitted.

Undergraduates were co-authors the following publications:

A book review of, Street Kids: Homeless Youth, Outreach, and Policing New York's Street. By Kristina Gibson.
