SWIG (Supporting Women in Geography) holds its 2nd annual Symposium in Critical Geography. Please join us for a series of talks and workshops that will take us from Palestine to Venezuela, to Afghanistan and the United States, and beyond, in hopes of stimulating conversations and developing critical viewpoints on the historical-geographical dynamics and combined effects of material, social, and symbolic processes of violence as they are manifested, experienced, and resisted in everyday life.

Speakers include: Nadera Shalhoub-Kevorkian, George Ciccariello-Maher, Jenna Loyd, Jennifer Fluri, Cutcha Risling-Baldy, James Anderson
